clinical child psychiatry second edition is the successor of the successful textbook edited by Drs Klyklo and Kay in 1998. This book comprises a textbook of current clinical practice in child and adolescent psychiatry. It is midway in size between the small handbooks that provide mainly a list of disorders and treatments and the large often multi-volume texts that are comprehensive but not easily accessible.

Anxiety disorders are common in children and adolescents and can be debilitating if not recognized and treated. This issue covers the landscape of anxiety disorders in youth from development and neurobiology to treatments, advances and novel approaches to informing other systems of care. Primary physicians, schools and parents. Specific anxiety disorders discussed include obsessive compulsive and tic related disorders, PTSD and school refusal and panic disorder. Pharmacotherapy, CBT and parent-child interaction therapies are reviewed.

With the publication of this book, psychotherapy finally arrives at the mainstream of mental health practice. This volume is an essential companion for every practising psychiatrist, clinical psychologist, psychotherapy counsellor, mental health nurse, psychotherapist and mental health practitioner. It is integrative in spirit with chapters written by an international panel of experts who combine theory and research with practical treatment guidelines and illustrative case examples to produce an invaluable book. Part one gives a comprehensive account of all the major psychotherapeutic approaches. Parts two and three systematically describe psychotherapeutic approaches to the major psychiatric disorders and personality disorders. Many chapters are multi-authored and describe the psychodynamic, cognitive-behavioural and other approaches for treating these illnesses. Part four examines applications and modifications of psychotherapy across the lifecycle. Part five describes psychotherapy with specific populations such as medical patients and those where gender is an issue. Finally, part six tackles some of the special topics of concern to psychotherapists including ethics, legal issues and psychotherapy and neuroscience. The first of its kind, this is a must-have volume for all trainee and practising psychological therapists whatever their background: psychiatry, psychology, social work or nursing.

Six centuries ago, Polynesian explorers who inhabited a cosmos in which islands sailed across the sea and stars across the sky arrived in Aotearoa, New Zealand, where they rapidly adapted to new plants, animals, landscapes and climatic conditions. Four centuries later, European explorers arrived with maps and clocks, grids and fences, and they too adapted to a new island home. In this remote beautiful archipelago, settlers from Polynesia and Europe and elsewhere have clashed and forged alliances; they have fiercely debated what is real and what is common sense, what is good and what is right. In this, her most ambitious book to date, Dame Anne Salmond looks at New Zealand as a site of cosmo-diversity, a place where multiple worlds engage and collide. Beginning with a fine-grained inquiry into the early period of encounters between Māori and Europeans in New Zealand, 1769-1840, Salmond then investigates such clashes and exchanges in key areas of contemporary life: waterways, land, the sea, and people. We live in a world of gridded maps, outlook calendars and balance sheets, making it seem that this is the nature of reality itself. But in New Zealand, concepts of whakapapa and hau, complex networks and reciprocal exchange, may point to new ways of understanding interactions between peoples and between people and the natural world. Like our ancestors, Anne Salmond suggests, we too may have a chance to experiment across worlds.
